

ARE YOU READY FOR AN ELECTRIC FLEET?

LeasePlan

It's easier to leaseplan

---

CONTENTS

---

ONE CAN ONLY LOVE WHAT ONE KNOWS	1
DRIVING ELECTRIC TODAY	1
When is a vehicle an EV?	1
The selection	2
What's new: the battery	2
EXPENSIVE INNOVATION OR INVESTMENT IN THE FUTURE?	4
Electricity versus fossil fuels	5
EVs and the government	6
Attendant costs for electric cars: recharging infrastructure and fuel	6
EVs versus same-segment diesel or petrol cars	8
DRIVING AN ELECTRIC CAR	10
Recharging facilities	10
Recharging	11
Driving	12
NEXT STEPS	13
DID YOU KNOW	14
SOURCES	15

ONE CAN ONLY LOVE WHAT ONE KNOWS

---

In Belgium, electric cars still remain something of an oddity. We have all heard of them, or even seen one drive past. Yet to most people, driving electric still seems a little futuristic - a concept which may sound appealing, but has not quite managed to take off yet.

“In Belgium, electric cars still remain something of an oddity.”

All the same, the demand for alternative solutions continues to rise. There are many reasons: rising fossil fuel prices, high concentrations of harmful substances in the atmosphere, taxes on carbon dioxide emissions, the desire to present an environmentally-friendly corporate image, etc.

In many respects, an electrically powered vehicle represents a significant step forward compared to cars that have a combustion engine. But EVs also imply greater investment, limited autonomy, an adapted driving style, the installation of charging posts, etc.

This brochure aims to provide you with reliable advice so that as an employer, you have a good understanding of the electric vehicles in your car fleet.

We will take a closer look at the following aspects: the different types of EVs, the attendant costs, the integration of electric vehicles as far as your own fleet is concerned and the driving style of your motorists. This should provide you with a clear idea of the future of the car industry: the EVs.

Would you like to receive the full document?

Mail us with your contact details, we will then send you a copy of this white paper

www.leaseplan.be consultancy@leaseplan.be +32 2 722 62 11